The Estonian economy began to soften towards the end of 2007 (as part of the natural economic cycle). Less than a year later, as the global financial crisis spread to the real economy, and in response to an expanding fiscal gap, the Estonian government revised the 2009 budget. Three supplementary budgets representing 9.3% of GDP were passed in 2009. Roughly half came from expenditure cuts and the other half from increased revenues (both taxes and other income, such as extra dividends from state-owned companies).

Country: Estonia

Link To Content At: http://dx.doi.org/10.1787/9789264107052-11-en

Knowledge Type: Country report

Other Tag: public organisations interest group

government procurement

social capital

labour market

training

government agencies

government policies

public management

partnering

Parent URL: http://dx.doi.org/10.1787/9789264107052-en

Source URL: https://www.innovationpolicyplatform.org/document/estonia-call-innovative-and-open-government-overview-country-initiatives

Links
[1] https://www.innovationpolicyplatform.org/country/estonia
[8] https://www.innovationpolicyplatform.org/topic/training [12] https://www.innovationpolicyplatform.org/topic/partnering